The game of science and knowledge: paths of informal education in

GiocheriaLaboratori

GiocheriaLaboratori is a municipal administration service in Sesto San Giovanni that offers workshops and training on informal science issues for schools and nurseries. The project presents how this educational service works by reflecting on children's motivation to acquire new knowledge, the importance of children's bodies, and children's relational learning. Photographs and videos will be used to show how children explore materials and phenomena, and build new mental patterns of interpretation, and how adults can support this learning process.
