The translation of multilingual films: an overview of the TRAFILM research project

This seminar focuses on the TRAFILM research project (FFI2014-55952-P), which researches multilingual films translated in Spain (2000-2014). The seminar will start with a plenary lecture by Carol O'Sullivan, who will examine the state-of-the-art on multilingual film translation. This will lead into the rest of the contributions by TRAFILM members: Corrius and Zabalbeascoa will analyse the theoretical model of the project; Sokoli, its methodological and technological implications and applications; and Santamaria, Pujol and Espasa will focus on the connections between multilingual films and cultural and ideological issues.
